Peter M. Canty represents a wide variety of clients in the construction industry, including developers, property owners, general contractors, construction managers, subcontractors, architects, and engineers, in both litigation-related and transactional matters. His practice involves all aspects of the construction process, from negotiating construction contracts and license agreements, to construction accident litigation, to defending and prosecuting post-construction property damage, breach of contract, and professional malpractice claims.

In 2017, Pete was recognized as a Rising Star by Super Lawyer Magazine, New York Metro Edition, for his distinguished work in the construction litigation field.

Pete first worked at Ingram as an associate from 2013 to 2016 and rejoined the firm as a partner in 2017. Prior to joining Ingram, Pete was an associate at Conway Farrell Curtin & Kelly, P.C. where his practice primarily focused on construction-related property damage and construction accident litigation.
